

Colourful Echoes, 2024

Colourful Echoes is the title piece for my solo art show. It is about the visual and audio reflections of my life which many can relate to. The bright cheerful lights are the happy good moments and the dark blue the down time. Together, they have enriched me through the process, ultimately leaving me stronger and more resilient and gracious than ever. Gaze at the painting, connect with it and transport oneself back to reflect on one's own journey of life.

MAY 18 - JUNE 15

FOREWORD

We are thrilled to present the solo art exhibition of Joanne Lau, a contemporary semi-abstract impressionist artist whose work resonates deeply with emotion, colour, and creativity. Born in 1954 in Sibul, Sarawak, Joanne reignited her passion for art in 2009, inspired by a cherished childhood memory. Her artistic journey, which began at the age of 55, has since blossomed into a remarkable exploration of empathy and expression.

Under the guidance of masters Sim Chiap Hin and David Chew, Joanne honed her skills and developed her distinctive style, characterised by swirling twirls and curls that breathe life into her canvases. Since making her public debut in 2014, Joanne's work has garnered international recognition, with exhibitions in London and her artworks now exhibited for sale in Dublin.

Joanne's upcoming exhibition, 'Colourful Echoes,' invites viewers on a journey through her life's audio and visual experiences. Vibrant colours symbolise moments of joy, while darker hues evoke periods of introspection, creating a harmonious balance that enriches one's life.

As Joanne celebrates her 70th birthday, this exhibition not only showcases her artistic evolution but also her commitment to giving back. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to three non-governmental organisations, reflecting Joanne's belief that her gift to paint is a blessing to be shared with others.

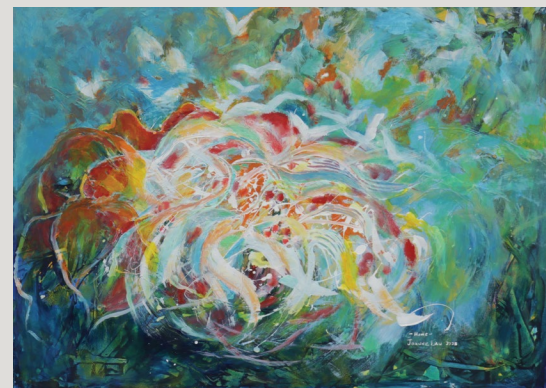

Join us in celebrating Joanne Lau's art, a celebration of life, resilience, and creativity, as she continues to inspire and uplift through her passion and purpose.
